Demands Action On Cuba

GOP Would 'Go to War' To Oust Castro

WASHINGTON (P) — A Republican council has recommended that the Johnson administration tell the world it is prepared "as a last resort to use military force to remove international communism from Cuba."

Democrats immediately fired back, describing the stinging GOP criticism of the administration's Cuban policy as "a crude political document."

And the Democrats remembered to remind their GOP critics that Fidel Castro took over as prime minister of Cuba while a Republican, Dwight D. Eisenhower, was president.

The fuss was stirred up Thursday when the Republican Critical Issues Council peppered the Democratic leadership with a series of demands for action against Castro.

The 24-member council of prominent Republicans, headed by Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, younger brother of the former president, urged an immediate end to U.S. curbs on anti-Castro raisers and establishment in Latin America of a Cuban government in exile. It said the lat-ter would rally 300,000 Cuban refugees "to work openly for the Possibility Of a Split Casts Shadow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Communist world held its annual May Day rites today with massive outpourings of people in Moscow and Peking and the usual tough talk about the invincibility of communism. But the great schism between the Soviet Union and Red China cast its shadow over the gala celebrations. The Soviets refused to attend the Peking rally and withdrew an invitation to a Chinese labor delegation to view the annual parade in Moscow's Red Square.

East Germany, Bulgaria, Hungary and Czechoslovakia joined the Soviets in their boycott of the Peking festivities.

Many non-Communist countries also held May Day celebrations to honor their labor force. But there were few such activities in the United States, where labor's big holiday occurs in

Officials Intrigued By Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. officials are intrigued by evidence that the Soviet Union now would like this country to give her a hand in Moscow's struggle with Red China.

This seems to be what the Russians are aiming at with their lecture to the American press Thursday about printing Red Chinese charges against Soviet communism.

Beneath the surface, however, the Soviets actually appear to be trying to use their dispute with the Red Chinese in an effort to wring concessions from the United Statets in fields of disarmament, nuclear arms for NATO, or the future of Germany and Berlin.

The fact that the Soviet would suggest a greater community of interest with the United States than with the Red Chinese is an indication of how far Premier Khrushchev and his advisers think the situation has gone. Pravda published an article

papers for printing what the paper called "rude, gross, anti-Soviet inventions" of the Chinese. It said one effect is to perpetuate the "myth about the aggressive nature of the Soviet. THANK YOU ...

I am happy to be back at my desk after a month's absence, and I know it could only be possible because of the wonderful and timely care given me by the members of the Sedalia Fire Department, by the doctors, nurses and staff personnel of Bothwell Hospital, and by the thoughtfulness of so many friends. I am indeed grateful to everyone.

ORTHO UNIPEL FERTILIZERS

It used to be when you ranted a fertilizer, you didn't have to worry about what was in it. They were all pretty much the same. But now, with all the talk about highanalysis fertilizers, it's a different story. You want to make sure you're getting the right combination - and the most for your money. That's where we think ORTHO UNIPEL High Analysis Fertilizers have the best story to tell. You get more "grow power" in every pound because they're highly concentrated-and they come in a variety of analyses so we can pick the right one for your soil, your crops.

When you use ORTHO High-Analysis Fertilizers, you'll have less to haul, less to handle, less to store and you'll save time in the field applying them. Plus the fact that your crops get both a fast-acting and a long-lasting feeding. ORTHO Fertilizer pellets are uniform in size so they apply more evenly across your field. This gives more uniform stand for fast, efficient harvesting.

Let's talk about how you can get more "grow power" for your crops with ORTHO UNIPEL High-Analysis "ertilizers.

.Where's Queen of the May?

What's become of May Day?

What's happened to the Maypole dance and to her highness, the Queen of the May?

What has happened is that May Day and its delightful rituals have, along with other splendid American traditions, succumbed to the rush and crush of space age living.

It is a pity. Those of us ancient enough to remember the gay and graceful Maypole dance, with the pretty girls in their pretty yellow dresses weaving intricate patterns with the long, colorful streamers that fluttered from the top of the stately Maypole — those of us who are that old can tell the youngsters they just don't know what they are missing.

The May Day ceremonies were more than mere rites. They heralded the end of the snows of winter and the bluster of early spring and saluted the softness and the leafy promise of approaching summer.

Here and there, May Day still is celebrated with Maypole dances and the gracious custom of children taking little baskets of spring flowers to their friends.

But a busy society has largely turned away from taking the time and trouble to acknowledge the arrival of a new season that brings new crops, new vegetation, new hope.

Perhaps it is too hard to find a sponsor for things as intangible as friendship, gratitude and hope.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Hard to Beat Pork Barrel Dispenser

(Editor's Note: The Drew Pearson column today is written his his associate, Jack Anderson.) By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON-One after the other, 64 members of the House of Representatives rose to eulogize one of their fellow members. Their lofty language sounded like a funeral service. Not even the late beloved Speaker Sam Rayburn received so many tributes after his death.

The object of their praise, however, was not dead. He was only afraid of political death. He sat on the House floor listening to the tributes, apparently keeping score on how many of the congressmen he had asked to pay him tribute did so. Almost to a man they came through.

Object of the encomiums was Rep. Mike Kirwan, the Youngstown, Ohic, Democrat, and the incident illustrated how difficult it is to defeat an entrenched and encrusted congressman, no matter what he does.

For the first time in over twenty years Mike Kirwan, a Democrat, has had Democratic opposition in his Democratic district. A hard-hitting, popular county councilman, Robert E. Hagan, with 14 children, has scared the political daylights out of Mike.

So suddenly 64 congressmen, out of the clear blue, made flowery speeches, endorsing Kirwan. When the late Franklin Roosevelt got into Democratic primaries he was bitterly criticized by some of these same congressmen. President Johnson only last week refused to intervene in the Democratic Maryland primary. Yet 64 congressmen ignored this time-honored rule.

The Hidden Story What they didn't say, when they made their flowery tributes, was that most of them had pork barrel projects before Kirwan's appropriations sub-committees and he held the veto over their pork. They also didn't mention that Kirwan, as chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, holds the purse-strings on campaign contributions for their re-election.

One of the first on his feet was Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., who unwittingly gave away his motive for singing Kirwan's praises.

"He (Kirwan) has had an important influence upon countless reclamation and public works projects funded during the last two decades," declared Albert. "These have run the gamut from power and flood control dams to fish hatcheries and game preserves. Name a project, and you can be sure that Mike Kirwan had a hand in its development.'

Albert neglected to add that he hopes to get $3,500,000 out of Kirwan this year as down payment on his pet $13,300,000 Arbuckle reclamation project in Oklahoma.

Indeed, the loudest praise seemed to come from those who sought the most money from Kirwan to spend on vote-getting projects

Rep. Ed Boland, D-Mass., called him "understanding, compassionate, kind and sympathetic." But most of all, Boland hoped Kirwan will be generous in providing federal funds to complete the $16,000,000 Cape Cod national seashore.

"Mike Kirwan is made of the stuff that

CAPE GIRARDEAU MISSOURIAN: Fringe Benefits for Biddy. — A number of years ago farmers discovered chickens had no more sense of time than a baboon, and took advantage of the fact by supplying artificial light to prolong the egg production day. Geneticists employed by the Australian government at Sydney went one step further in an attempt to create a super breed of chicken which would lay two eggs a day.

An electronic computer was connected to a chicken production line in an experimental station which feeds noise and light in a calculated effort to keep the chicken's normal routine totally confused. Presumably frustrated by all the confusion, a chicken lays more eggs.

The computer records the exact time of the arrival of each egg, and by which hen delivered. From this data it is simple to cull the drones and improve the breed.

A visitor to a chicken house these days will be excused if he is startled by flashing neon lights, time clocks to record the arrival of each unit of output and a 20-piece brass band blaring away with "The Old Grav Mare."

Kennedy's was-has been an economic boycott to shut off all trade with Castro. But the Allies trade with him, noting this country wants to boycott trade with communism in Cuba while selling wheat to communism in

The Republican group—called the Republican Citizens Committee's Critical Issues Council came up with this:

"It must be clearly understood by the world the United States is prepared, as a last resort, to use military force to remove international communism from Cuba, just as it has long been prepared to use military force in Korea, Berlin, Lebanon, the Formosa Straits, and else-

These were poor examples. The United States was never prepared to use military force those places except to stop attacks, invasions or takeovers. And Cuba isn't threatening to invade or take over anybody.

Then is the Republican council proposing to go beyond defense and into a direct attack on Cuba, in which case it would be an aggressor? No. It said: "We are not advocating hasty a boy's tie out of the other end, and improper military action against Cuba.

What would "improper military action" be, an invasion? The council doesn't say. It hopefully suggests that just letting it be known the United States is willing to use force is "probably the greatest assurance that it won't be needed." So another question is raised but not an-

2. The Johnson administration prevents Cuban exiles from using American bases for raids on Cuba. The council seems to suggest this is all right but that the exiles should be encouraged to use other countries' bases.

3. The United States should help form a Cuban governmentin-exile, and support it. This would take some doing, since the exiles are widely divided in their thinking.

But, the council says, such a government should equip an army. It couldn't do so without American help or get to Cuba without American transportation. And such an army would be worthless unless it go to Cuba to invade.

But suppose Castro beat the brains out of the invaders. Would the United States then step in to save them by direct intervention or would it hang back as it did in the Bay of Pigs. And what would Russia be doing all this time?

Answer: Your feelings are hurt, but they shouldn't be. Your daughter has to impress this stranger with her helpfulness because she is uncertain of the stranger's interest in her. She doesn't have to impress you with it because you are Mother -and your interest in her is the most certain thing in the world.

If you want to begin to demand some regular assistance with your supper chores, by all means do so. All I'm suggesting is that making it a reproachful demand is not justified. Your daughter has not denied you her helpfulness out of disregard for her. If you can credit this ne- grownup identity.

As a general rule, adolescent youngsters work more eagerly and more reliably for strangers than they do for their family. Like your daughter, they will duck the chore of dish-drying for us but labor like Cinderella for the woman upstairs. They will willingly forego a meal to finish a job of painting they have undertaken to do for a neighbor but forget, postpone or stall over mailing a letter for us. And very hurtful and bewildering is their behavior so long as we insist on looking at it through the distorting lens of our own self - disparagement. Seen through this lens, the behavior can only represent their disparagement. But the moment we can put value on ourselves. its whole meaning begins to change.

Choose Baby Sitters On Basis of Responsibility

Having chosen your sitter, see that she has all the information she may need. Show her where the telephone is and give her the phone numbers of the police and fire departments, family doctor and places where you can be reached. Show her how to change a fuse and, in winter, how to regulate the heat. She should also know where your first aid supplies are kept. Be sure she knows where all the emergency exits are.

Do not hire a sitter if the child has a cold or other contagious disease. And if the sitter has a cold, do not employ her. If you get home late you should escort the sitter to her home. can have harmful effects.

Observance of these simple rules will increase your peace of mind and will be appreciated by a sitter whose services you may want to use again.

Q - What causes a child to be born with so-called hereditary defects?

A - I assume you want to know why a child may be born with any defects. True hereditary defects are caused by some abnormality that is carried in the genes found in either the sperm or ovum. These genes predetermine such structural features as the size, shape and color of various parts of the body. Hereditary defects are accentuated if there is a close kinship between the husband and wife. Other causes of congenital defects can be traced to certain virus diseases occurring in the first three months of pregnancy. (most notably German measles or a diet grossly lacking in certain essential nutrients - especially folic acid. This is a vitamin found in chicken liver, asparagus, broccoli, lettuce and spinach.

Certain drugs - as was so tragically shown in the case of thalidomide sleeping pills - can be a cause. And the exposure of the mother's ovaries or of the embryo to large doses of X-ray

Impact of the 'New Math'

By SUSAN LIGHT Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: I am delighted with the considered and accurate answer you gave to the parent who asked about the "new math." I am mad as the dickens that I came through the training of a memorized catechism in math. My only concern is that many teachers will be doing business at the same old stand - rote memorization. I am having my own private struggle to learn how to teach "reasoning, thinking, and organization.'

May I recommend a document of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare which does the best job of explaining that I know: "Modern Mathematics and Your Child. It costs 20 cents.

The truth is 2 times 2 may be 4, but it is also 10, and this wisdom was summarized in Shakespeare's "What's in a When our name? The new stuff will produce kids who can "figure" when they need to use itinstead of just knowing parlor and doting relatives.

The whole ball of wax will take about 20 to 30 years. I wish I could live to see it, but I do want my grandchildren to have it from the beginning.

For setting forth the longrange plans, the greatest educational document of this century is: "Goals for School Mathematics" - the Report of the Cambridge Conference on School Math, (November 1963) Houghton Mifflin, $1.

If you read it, you'll be 10 years ahead of the times. Francis Keppel, U.S. Commissioner on Education, says, "It is not only that most teachers will be completely incapable of teaching much of the mathematics set forth in the curriculum proposed here; most teachers would be hard put to comprehend it

Even the first grade curriculum employs notions with which the average teacher is unfamiliar.'

I can honestly say I'm having that sort of trouble, but I'm working day and night to master it because I believe in a grand new world for our grandchildren. - "NEW MATH" TEACHER

Neurosurgery Limited For Video Doctor

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-If "Ben Casey" had it to do all over again, chances are that the dedicated doctor would pick a speciality other than neurosurgery.

"Neurosurgery is pretty selflimiting," explained the ABC series' technical advisor.

The technical advisor, incidentally, is not a neurosurgeon, but a registered nurse, Alice Rodriquez, who inherited the job when Dr. Max Warner, the brain surgeon who first worked on the show, was called into the Navy. She talks like a real doctor after all her association with medical problems.

Mrs. Rodriguez' job, however, does not involve hunting new diseases and ailments to fit storylines. That is done by the three medical consultants who work with the script writers.

Sometimes she bandages simulated wounds. She checks out the operating room to make sure the instruments are in correct sequence. She orders supplies. Most important, perhaps, she hunts for incorrect procedures and un-medical dialogue in scripts.

The past season has been a rather traumatic one for the glowering surgeon-hero and his cohorts. ABC shifted the show from its popular Monday night spot to Wednesday nights and an hour when two popular comedy shows are shown on a rival network. "Ben Casey" dropped abruptly from its levels among the 10 top shows to-in the most

by Carroll Hobson The Importance Of Being In Love

the first consideration in your choice. You really must love the carpet you choose for your home. You will feel this excitement from color and style, primarily before you consider fiber, brand name, or price. Choose the carpet that suits you inside and fits your way of life out-

At Hobson's Carpet Center we like to think that you can satisfy both the emotional and practical aspects to be considered. We offer an assortment of 2000 different styles in a wide range of glorious colors. The three basic fibers featured are: wool . . . the natural fiber that remains the standard of comparison for all fibers. Popular because of its known and fine-tested satisfaction. It is hard to beat if used in a carpet of the proper construction. All ours are permanently moth-proofed, of course.

Nylon . . . the all-time durability champ. Pound for pound the longest - wearing fiber used today. Easy cleanability because it is non absorbent. Look for quality standard labels though, such as DuPont "501." Twists, as DuPont "501." multi - level, and plushes are available.

. winning in-Acrylic . . creasing acceptance at an ever faster pace because it combines the look and "hand" of wool with the features of man-made fibers. Recent cost reductions of this fiber make it a top contender for over-all value. Styles are more beautiful than ever.

Adventure with color . . . time was when you had to use being grey or green to use beige, grey, or green to go practical. No more! Dare to be different with color. Turquoise, aqua, burnt orange, burnished gold look good. The green family is all dressed up with rich lime, emerald, moss, and sauturne

How to Shop . . . The order of importance we suggest in finding your carpet is: (1) Color, (2) Style, (3) Quality, (4) Fiber, (5) Prices. A lightweight carpet needs a cushion and a good one deserves it. Rewards are a better walk and almost triple wear with less pile crushing. Wall-to-Wall installation is better in almost every in-stance because: (1) More beautiful appearance, (2) Spacious effect, (3) No unfinished edges, (4) Bouncier pads possible, (5) No buckl-ing, (6) No shrinkage when shampooed, (7) Metal protection at doorways, (8) Greater flexibility of furniture arrangement. An upright Cleaner . . . will your carpet's "bag" enemies, soil and sand. Quick action is the secret of success in removing spills and stains. A spot kit will solve your problems here and works on upholstery, too. If you add some TLC (tender, loving care) you will gain longer life from your investment in beauty. In tufted carpet a double backing is very import-

Price . . . Buy the best you can afford is the best advice we can offer. Usually the most expensive purchase is inexpensive carpet . . . you cover the floor and do little more. In conclusion . . don't settle for a carpet, select one from our large assortment of famous brands. We will be glad to show them to you and feel that you will be glad you saw us before you bought your carpet anywhere else.

Fire Destroys Old Barn In Sedalia Thurs.

Fire, believed to have start-West Third Street, about 3:41 p. m. Thursday

It was believed sparks from the trash barrel started the fire. When firemen arrived, the barn was a mass of flames on the interior and as it burned its way through the roof and walls, flames burst high into the air and spread quickly throughout the building.

The barn was formerly used by the late J. T. Watkins as a workshop when the Watkins family resided at the residence

Howling Season Arrives

Sedalia. Literally, that is true eners are both being heard in Sedalia although not in unison.

Coupled with the howls over the radio and Tv about impending tornadoes, the racket is a sure sign spring has arrived hereabouts.

Sedalians can't do much about preventing tornadoes but they can do something about stray dogs running over another resident's property creating nuisances and ruining vegetable and flower gardens.

The police department is appealing for support by dog owners to restrain the animals as required by city ordinance. The latter has some stiff penalties for careless dog owners and they should take cognizance of this before not after becoming victims of the law.

With so many places to plant their paws one wonders why dogs have to pick out gardens. It may be because the next door neighbor or the dog

Does that explain why so many dogs bite the mailman? Have dogs been listening to their masters complain about the postoffice department's service, and thus have developed neuroses to the point that the man who brings the mail must be nipped on the leg.

In light of the British doctor's theory, postmen have a right to become suspicious that dog owners are thinking unkindly about the man who walks up to load the mailbox.

Maybe postmen should ask mothers-in-law to act as escorts and then see what happens.

Comsat will develop and maintain a commercial system of Telstar-type satellites. Half its stock, expected to sell for $20 a share, will go to communications companies, half to the public.

Most of those who would like to buy a share in the space age will have to wait, however, for the Comsat stock is already oversubscribed-even though, as one analyst pointed out, the company hasn't earned a cent yet, may not show a profit for five years or pay a dividend for 10 years.

If the Russians had any doubts about the earnestness of American intentions in space, the impending oribiting of their arch-enemy Wall Street ought to remove them.

Nuclear Cutback Was An LBJ Coup

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This is a column which may make LBJ sore. Because he has given instructions that nothing is to leak out regarding his delicate negotiations with Nikita Khrushchev concerning the joint cutback of nuclear production; also, he wants no credit for this milestone on the road to peace. Give the credit to the State Department staff and Mr. Khrushchev, he has told White House aides.

Inside fact, however, is that Lyndon Johnson began as early as last December probing new avenues for peace. He was just as restless and relentless in this probing as when he invited congressmen to swim in the White House pool and between strokes told them to get busy and pass tax and civil rights bills.

He began this probing three days after Christmas when at the LBJ ranch he told Chancellor Erhard of West Germany: "Ask yourselves what you can do to improve relations with Russia. I'm not trying to advise you. I can't be in the position of advising the German government. But remember, the Russian people suffered terrible casualties at the hands of Germany. They were invaded by Germany in two world wars. You can understand why they are jittery. We want to examine every avenue toward peace and we want you to help us. We cannot keep our feet in concrete.

This was unique and different advice to give West Germany which frequently has been accused of setting U.S. foreign policy, not having us set policy for them. LBJ Gets Busy

A few days after that conversation—early in January—the president himself began examining avenues of peace. He was just as energetic on the telephone to the cabinet regarding disarmament as he was to the Congress regarding taxes and civil rights.

He would call up Secretary of Defense McNamara and tell him: "Let's find something to offer. We can't get anywhere if we don't offer anything ourselves.

It was from this restless LBJ probing that the January proposal to freeze the strategic delivery of nuclear weapons was born; also the 20 per cent reduction of fissionable production announced in the state of the union

The U.S. offer at Geneva to destroy all B-47's did not get Soviet acquiescence. Nevertheless there are definite indications that Russia will follow the American lead in not permitting its bombers when out- the opposite of onetime "brinkmanship."

moded to fall into the hands of Arabs. Africans, Indonesians, or others with irresponsible ideas about disrupting the peace.

It was about six weeks ago that the president started working on his current plan to reduce nuclear production by independent, unilateral statements

At that time he knew Khrushchev had made a statement to me in an interview, August 17, that he would reduce the Russian military budget unilaterally regardless of the Geneva arms talks and regardless of the United States. Later, Khrushchev did reduce by 4.7 per cent. That same month, December, Johnson reduced U.S. military expenditure about the same amount. The effect was healthy.

So Johnson decided to try the same technique of building better trust and understanding by extending the principle of mutual example. He decided to appeal to good sense on both sides.

No Leaks Allowed

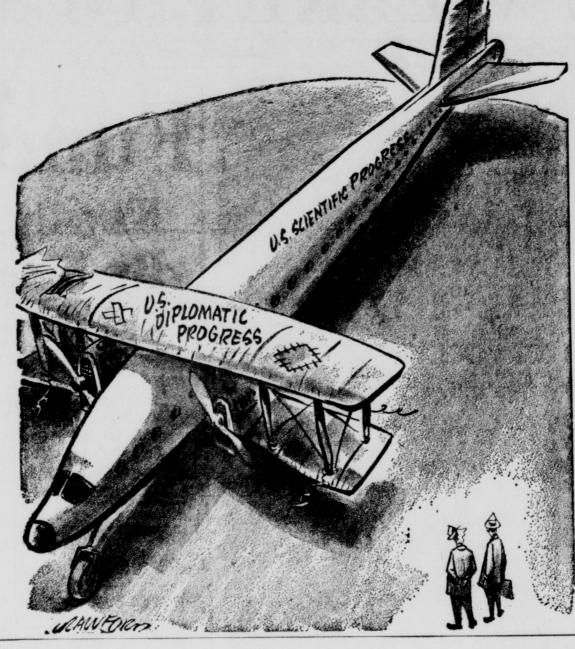

Johnson was very secret about his negotiations, gave tough instructions to his staff there should be no leaks. This was one reason for the president's brusk denial of Murray Marder's clean scoop in the Washington Post last week that LBJ would announce a nuclear moratorium at the AP

That denial was just as much a fib by the president as anything Harry Truman ever accused me of telling about the president. But there were reasons for Johnson's denial: chiefly that he didn't want to get Mr. Khrushchev off balance, didn't want him to think the White House was talking out of both sides of its mouth. Also, various congressmen began calling up to ask whether Lyndon was giving away the family

When Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin called on Johnson last Friday, the delicate understanding was just about buttoned up-but not quite. Actually the President did not know until ten minutes before the Associated Press luncheon that Khrushchev would go along with him 100 per cent. So the president was afraid any premature story would upset a negotiation he had carefully nursed to the brink of success.

All this was how the energetic salesman in the White House sold his own staff, then the Soviet world, on gradual, highly important steps away from the brink of war. It's what foreign diplomats in Washington call

US Tactics to Strangle Red Cuba

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst seem ironic to American allies and the Communist world but

plant to Romania, since both countries are linked to Russia? To mix the picture up some more the Allies have sold many things to Communist countries and this country has given assistance to Yugoslavia, sold wheat to Russia, and had good tariff relations with Poland.

The United States wants to strangle Castro economically and thus wreck him or force changes in communism in Cuba. How? By a boycott shutting off all trade with him, particularly in items which might help him

And, the thinking goes, the harder up he is, the more of a drain he will be on Russia which is now estimated to be helping him at the rate of about $1 million a day.

Ball said in a speech at Roanoke, Va., the locomotives would help the Cuban economy because its main export, sugar, is carried to port almost entirely by rail and her railroad system is "presently in a critical state of disrepair.'

He explained that while Castro is not a military threat to the United States it is a Communist menace to Latin America by trying to subvert governments and set off terror cam-

But Romania is considered a leading example of a Communist nation trying to loosen its ties with Moscow and is busily pursuing trade with other Western nations. An ally might ask: If Castro can't get help from any of the Western nations, and therefore must rely more and more on Moscow, then wouldn't his ties with Russia be strengthened instead of weakened?

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has acknowledged that the United States treats different Communist countries differently, and he gave three reasons: To encourage the individual

Communist nations toward more independence and internal freedom; to try to work out relations agreements with various Communist states to reduce the danger of war; and to make the expansion of communism too costly to be worthwhile, which is what this country hopes in the case of its boycott on Cuba.

But-the American attempt to get its allies and friends to boycott Castro is far from successful. The French have sold him about $10 million in trucks, the British about $11 million in buses. Yugoslavia, Spain and Morocco have dealt with him. Last month Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, said the U.S. economic policy toward Cuba is a failure: "I am not arguing against the desirability of a boycott but against its feasibility. It is simply not within our power to compel our allies to cut off trade with Cuba unless we are prepared to take drastic sanctions against them. The United States hasn't shown any willingness to invoke drastic sanctions. It has tried

Meanwhile, the Western nations, seeing their chance to make a buck, do more and more trading with communism. In 1961, the last year for which complete figures are available, the Communist bloc imported $5 billion worth of goods from the

Work to Close Tax Law Loopholes Cheaters Use

By RAY CROMLEY Washington Correspondent Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON - Some Treasury Department income tax experts are working for radical reforms that would give tax scofflaws a harder time and make life easier

These men note that in a good many years in the past decade, the federal budget deficit would have been wiped out, or virtually wiped out, if all income, legal and illegal, had been reported and the proper taxes paid. This unreported legal and illegal income is probably in the neighborhood of $30 to $35 billion a year or more.

These Treasury officials be-

1. Federal judges must be permitted and encouraged by Congress to impose much stiffer fines on willful tax evaders.

2. Methods must be found to insure that judges in different areas of the country are more uniform in the punishment they hand out for tax evasion.

3. Tax laws must be simpli-

4. Tax law language must be drastically tightened. One businessman told me recently it was more profitable for his company to hire an extra tax attorney than to develop a new product. "We make a greater profit by putting more of our effort into discovering new ways to avoid taxes," he said. The vice president of an electronics research firm said almost the same thing. "Between hiring a new high-powered scientist for our laboratory and taking on an extra tax attorney, we'll take the tax attorney," he said. "It pays." Worried Treasury men say the underworld is getting smarter in tax evasion. Time was when Al Capone could be tracked down and caught in simple income tax fraud. As one U.S. official puts it: "Now the top hoods hire first rank lawyers who find loopholes. Convicting a racketeer defended by a sharp lawyer is getting more and more diffi-

"We used to be able to catch a racketeer by adding up his expenditures, then comparing these with his reported income, says another Treasury man. "But nowdays the racketeer's tax lawyer figures out for him just how much of his income pays a tax on just that much. 'Say a racketeer takes in $500,000. His attorneys figure $300,000 can be traced to him. So he pays the tax on $300,000."

and outgo is traceable. Then he

Another technique that's increasing in popularity has been developed by underworld men who invest their funds in legitimate businesses through fronts. In the days when a hood used one front, the Internal Revenue man would track him down, get the front for having more money than he could account for.

Under the refined front system, the underworld man invests through a whole bevy of front men. Each invests only a small amount of his boss' funds. The amounts are small enough so that the Internal Revenue Service would have a difficult time proving he's using money on which income taxes haven't been paid. But these investments, in aggregate, can amount to millions of dollars.

The average taxpayer, whether a corporation or individual, is basically honest, the Treasury has found. A third of the thousands of taxpayers who make mistakes in their returns err in the Treasury's favor. They beat themselves out of more than $169 million a year (which the Treasury returns). They're caught up in mathematical mistakes and in the law's compli-

A MAN who goes out to take care of his horse, leaves his boots on the carport when he comes back home. For several days he noticed that there was dry grass and stuff in the boots. And he began to wonder about it. After all he didn't get that much grass and dirt in his boots just going out to feed his horse, he thought. But he couldn't figure out how it got there.

Then one morning he found birds were trying to build a nest in his boots. He went in and told his wife, who didn't believe

"Come on out here and see." he said. And she did. Sure enough there was the nest in the boot - not Puss in Bootsbut Bird in Boots. Nearby working hard was the little bird pulling dry grass, which she carried to the boot near me as there are always children playing on the floor. Now I take a six-inch piece of masking tape and lay it, sticky side up, on the right side of my sewing machine. Cut-off threads are put on the sticky tape. It never seems to get pushed off or blown on the floor. After the sewing is finished, I throw both thread and tape away.

My daughter, 2, is interested in jigsaw puzzles. At first she would pout because I could not always sit down and help her fit the pieces together. I finally put the puzzle together myself, leaving out about three pieces. Then I had her put the last pieces in by herself. Every time I left out a few more pieces and now she puts the whole puzzle together by herself. This helped both of us gain patience. Do keep up the good hints. Killing Cancer Before It Kills Us

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an informal, round-table discussion, three eminent authorities on the disease of cancer answer a reporter's questions. Participants are Dr. Wendell G. Scott, of St. Louis, current president of the American Cancer Society; Dr. I. S. Ravdin, of Philadelphia, and Dr. John W. Cline, of San Francisco - both former presidents of the society.

Have we made advances in treating cancer?

DR. SCOTT: Surgery, radiation and drugs are the principal ways of treating cancer. I believe we must now look to a combination of all three of these -radiation, surgery and chemotherapy - for further advances in cancer control.

DR. RAVDIN: A study is now on under the auspices of the National Cancer Chemotherapy on the effectiveness of radiation before surgery. For instance, there is some evidence that radiation of the lower colon and rectum, prior to removal of these areas for extensive cancers, provides better future results than sur-

They will come, I expect, in a rather piecemeal fashion. There will be a breakthrough here and breakthrough there, but ultimately I am just as convinced as Dr. Scott that we will have the complete answer. How long it is going to take, no one knows.

DR. RAVDIN: There have been great advances in virus research. We know that many of the animal tumors are essentially viral in origin, and a search is on to determine if viruses may also be the cause of human cancers. Once this is determined, we will be well on the road to control or prevent this particular kind of cancer.
